Falcon Maker Table Series

As the Maker Movement expands into offices, libraries, community centers and other spaces, Falcon is introducing a line of maker tables that fit into any environment. The durable, flexible tables provide a comfortable, stylish and functional place to bring creations to life.

Available in solid wood or laminate work surfaces, Falcon's maker table series includes a range of standing or task heights. Double-locking casters, available on two or four legs, keep the table firmly in place, while the steel legs feature a natural raw finish. Power is available on the underside of the table or via the tabletop, with optional wire management available to conceal cords in the table legs.

"We've received great response from designers who like the simple yet elegant design and facility managers who like how the tables can easily adapt to any number of maker applications," says Steve Cohen, Falcon corporate vice president of sales and marketing. BoF
